Summary

A school district may operate a community education program. For the current school year, 326 school districts operate a community education program. Community education revenue for fiscal year 2026 is estimated at about $48 million in aid and levy. Community education revenue is an equalized aid and levy program that has two parts: (1) basic community education revenue equal to an allowance of $6.35 times the population of the school district; and (2) an after-school enrichment revenue source providing districts with $1.85 times the first 1,335 residents of the district and 43 cents times each additional resident of the school district.

H.F. 922 removes obsolete tax rates and revenue allowances from the community education revenue program for prior years and has no substantive effect.
